Peace on Earth

We hear the word composite a lot nowadays. In dentistry it refers to the fillings that we commonly place, but we also hear about it as a modern building material. There is actually a deep connection between dentistry and the beginnings of composite technology.

In the late 1950's, Dr. Leo Windecker had been practicing dentistry for about 10 years, when he started to think about his new hobby of flying and a new material called Styrofoam. From his understanding of bone anatomy, he started to think about being able to artificially create something like bone; light and airy on the inside, and hard and strong on the outer shell. He started work on this 'composite' material in his garage and eventually came up with over 20 patents that led to the creation of the first all composite aircraft.

Eventually the military applications became clear to Windecker. Just like early composite fillings, this composite was virtually invisible to xrays, but, more importantly to the military, also invisible to radar. Windecker worked to bring this technology to the defense department and eventually these advances were used in the development of the F-117 Nighthawk Stealth Fighter.

LENDING A HELPING HAND

One of the benefits of working here in Lincoln is that we have been able to come in contact with so many people that are involved in charitable works around our area. We have been honored to help and play a role in supporting them and some of these organizations and events with sponsorships over this last year. So thank you to some of those who let us play a part last year: Smiles for Kids, Lincoln Girls Softball, Toys for Tots, Community Christian School, GEMS 5K, Lincoln High Football, Mud Run 4 Life, Lions Club and St. Joseph's Charity Golf Tournaments, CDA Cares, Kiwanis and PALS Fish N. Kids Fishing Derby, Lincoln Open Space Committee, Friends of Lincoln Kids Rib Fest, Knights of Columbus Oktoberfest, the CDA Foundation, and the rest.

DENZLER FAMILY DENTISTRY

Now for a trick question!
Who is this?

or see our website

This year we took some photos with the children of our dental team. We talk to you all the time about our kids so we thought that we would share them with you in some photos. More photos are on our website.

The photos were all taken by Carrie Gulliford of C. Michelle Photography. Carrie lives here in Lincoln and specializes in outdoor photo sessions such as this. Not easy to keep this big crew sitting still.

Recent Upgrade for Patient Comfort

We are starting to use the Isolite system to help with some of our dental filling appointments. The Isolite slips comfortably into a patient's mouth and helps to protect the cheek and tongue, provides suctioning of all that water that accumulates, and lets your jaw rest on something if it gets tired. It's actually more comfortable than it looks!
